Dear Program Director,

Welcome to the Lamplighter Theatre production of The White Gypsy. For this show, we did something new--inviting five Lamplighter Guild students to join us at The Soundhouse Recording Studios in London. What a joy to have these students with us! They assisted in helping us take care of the actors, and took part as background actors themselves in the crowd scenes. One of them even got to play a speaking role.

As an experiment, the students came up with an idea for the bookend (the part with Finnian Jones) and worked a little on writing and developing the storyline and dialogue. Finally, all five of them got to act in the bookend as well. We won't do this for every show, but it was a thrill to catch a glimpse of the next generation of writers, actors, and producers!

The White Gypsy is the story of a precocious six-year-old--Willie Phayre--who dies in a train wreck. Hmm, that sounds like a pretty short story. But wait...a couple of gypsies steal the body for the gold buttons on Willie's jacket, only to find out that Willie is not dead after all!

Now Willie--who has no recollection of his former life--is forced into a life of stealing, as a gypsy. Yet, there is something in this remarkable little boy that causes him to overcome--even when he faces trials that would devastate most adults.

The White Gypsy is a wonderful story of God's persevering redemption, his relentless love, and his surprising way of bringing us home.

Thank you for being such a vital part of our growing Lamplighter Theatre family. God's favor has been on this program from the beginning. In September 2009, we started with 600 radio outlets in eight countries. Westar Media Group reports that we now have 1612 radio outlets in 21 countries (see list below). In addition, we're partnering with Trans World Radio to reach even more nations around the globe.

In closing, working on Lamplighter Theatre— seeing the way it's touching and even changing people--is truly one of the most magnificent joys of life.

Blessings ahead,
The Lamplighter Team
