Dear Program Director,

A little girl, shivering and alone on the streets of London...
An alcoholic mother who believes God turned his back on her...
And a crusty old coffee salesman with a shadow on his conscience...

This is Jessica's Journey, one of the most endearing Lamplighter Theatre productions we've ever produced. You and your listeners are in for a treat as you experience the story of little Jessica's simple faith—a faith that changes the life of everyone in her world.

Jessica's Journey is based on a book written in 1866 by Hesba Stretton, a protégé of Charles Dickens. This story sold over 1.5 million copies—outselling Alice in Wonderland by ten times! When you hear Jessica's story, you'll know why.

The story was lovingly adapted for radio and directed by BBC writer/producer Philip Glassborow, who also works with our friends at Focus on the Family Radio Theatre. You and your listeners can get a sneak preview behind the scenes of this remarkable audio drama at Lamplighter.net.

But we'll let you in on a couple other behind-the-scenes stories...

Just before our session in London, Philip announced he would be retiring from his acting career. Philip has appeared in quite a number of productions. You may remember Philip in one of his most famous roles-- Tumnus the Fawn in Chronicles of Narnia, or in Lamplighter Theatre as Charlie's father in Charlie's Choice or The Questioner in Sir Knight of the Splendid Way.

So when you hear The Workman (the brick layer) in the very first scene, you're listening to Philip's final performance as an actor. In the scene was his friend Michael Haughey, starring as Mr. Daniel, the coffee stall salesman.
Michael had been with Philip from the beginning of his acting career and invited him to church (where he met his future wife Lizzie). And now Michael was acting alongside his good friend for the last time.

After Philip finished his scene, all the other actors applauded as he came out of the studio. It was a heartwarming moment. And one we were privileged to witness.

You'll also hear some powerful performances with Jessica's mother, played by beloved actress Cathy Sara (who starred as Mrs. Drake in Downton Abbey and teaches at The Lamplighter Guild). You may recall Cathy as the sweet daughter Mary in The Basket of Flowers or the compassionate Mary, the mother of Jesus, in Titus—A Comrade of the Cross. When Cathy's husband heard her performance in Jessica's Journey as an alcoholic, abusive shrew, he was shocked and amazed! "That's my Cathy?!" he remarked.

We trust you and your listeners will enjoy this poignant, powerful story of a little girl's persevering faith--Jessica's Journey!
